MEMORANDUM FOR:

FROM: DCI

25X1

1. Would you check with  Security, etc.--in about September I met at home with my friend  from San Francisco. After that, I gave him on the spot a bunch of security forms to fill out to become a consultant to us.

 was aware of all of this. ~~I don't think he~~ I have never heard whether he returned those forms. I don't want to check with him. I want to make sure that they aren't lying around here without receiving attention.

2. Next, get word to Maury Lipton that I am somewhat less than pleased that I haven't heard anything from him on how we made out in the Fiscal 80 budget and the Fiscal 81 budget. In short, now that Congressional action is complete I ought to get a report on how well we did, where we're hurting as a result of Congressional action, and what we're going to have to do before the year is over. Similarly, I'd like something on the President's budget for 81 including what I understand is his view that the percentage of real growth is not very large.

S. F. Clabaugh, Retired Colonel, CIA Official

Samuel F. Clabaugh, 89, a retired Army colonel and Central Intelligence Agency official, died Friday at the Carriage Hill nursing home in Bethesda. He had Parkinson's disease.

Col. Clabaugh was called to active duty from the reserves in 1940. A year later he went to London as an assistant military attache and liaison officer with the British ministry of economic warfare. He also served with the U.S. Army in Italy, the Middle East and China.

After the war he served on the faculty of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces before retiring from active duty in 1949. He then joined the CIA and rose to division chief before retiring a second time in 1953.

For the next 10 years he and his wife, the former Maitland Thompson Linney, traveled extensively while he was a business consultant.

From 1963 until the mid-1970s, Col. Clabaugh had been a research associate with Georgetown University's Center for Strategic and International Studies. He also had contributed to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

He was a member of Metropolitan Memorial United Methodist Church in Washington, and belonged to the Cosmos and the Army and Navy clubs.

Col. Clabaugh was a native of Birmingham, Ala. He earned a bachelor's, master's, and law degrees at the University of Alabama where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He also had been president of the university's Alumni Association.

SAMUEL F. CLABAUGH

He began working at the Birmingham News-Age Herald at the age of 11, eventually becoming a police reporter. At the age of 20, he founded the daily Tuscaloosa (Ala.) News. Col. Clabaugh also became an officer of banking and insurance companies and helped found the Birmingham public zoo before entering the Army.

In addition to his wife of 32 years, of Washington, Col. Clabaugh is survived by three daughters of a previous marriage, Jean Hiles of Pensacola, Fla., Doris Jadan of the U.S. Virgin Islands, and Elizabeth Johnson of Winston-Salem, N.C.; a stepson, Romulus Z. Linney of New York City, eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.
